Market surveillance varies heavily and enforcement remains highly inconsistent across different regions.

Crossing the room required completely different paperwork.