

Tattoo inks are injected directly into the skin, creating a direct toxicological exposure route.

The siege of the epidermis rarely warrants a trebuchet.