

National authorities issue alerts mandating the withdrawal and marketing ban of formulations containing excessive concentrations of restricted substances.

Ejection into deep space remains an unverified method of regulatory compliance.