

A sensitising or neurotoxic ink cannot be placed on the market without appropriate classification and labelling.

The warning label became so comprehensive that reading it required a long sabbatical.