

Standard acoustic measurement filters completely ignore the highest frequencies, reporting a safe environment while cleaning equipment blasts unmeasured noise. The optical scanner confirms the beverage evaporated in total silence.