

Daily noise exposure accumulates over time, meaning working a longer shift dramatically reduces the volume you can safely endure.

A pristine acoustic record ruined by dropping the sterilization tray.