

Turning the stereo down slightly is the single most effective and entirely free way to reduce daily noise exposure.

Trashing a masterful architectural blueprint in favor of touching a knob.