

The regulatory gap means some regions restrict tattoo inks while others largely do not.

Weather patterns vary wildly depending on your local government.