

A 2024 Swedish study reported a possible 21% relative lymphoma risk increase but explicitly stated causality could not be established.

The correlation between wild assumptions and panic remains extremely high.