

The absolute change, if causal, shifts the lifetime risk from about 2.1% to roughly 2.5%.

An epic mythological battle against a mathematical rounding error.