

A 2017 study showing pigment travels to lymph nodes simply confirms the body filtration system is working as designed.

Biological filtration quietly succeeds without requiring an audience.