

Emerging regulations prohibit tattoo artists from supplying or applying topical numbing medicines to their clients. The clandestine underworld sting yielded merely moisturizer.