

Reapplying products mid-session to broken skin bypasses the intact barrier entirely and drastically escalates toxicity risks.

He decided dodging needles was infinitely easier than learning pharmacology.