

Creams formulated in lipophilic bases alter the physical texture of the skin, making it waxy and difficult to track with a needle. The slippery slope event begins immediately.