

Puncturing a mole introduces mechanical stress to a cluster of cells with known malignant potential.
The danger of waking sleeping pigment cells.