

Rendering a client unconscious shifts the physiological burden to require active respiratory monitoring and rescue protocols.
Blacksmith bellows are remarkably versatile when you panic.