

The technical proficiency required to produce body art is entirely distinct from the medical qualifications necessary to administer sedation. Multitasking is simply the elegant art of doing everything poorly at the same time.