

Skin damage is driven by needle penetration rather than perception.
The brick wall remains unimpressed by inner peace.