

Practitioners must hold traceable compliance evidence for the specific bottle in hand rather than relying on documents stored at the supplier.

The promise of paper does not wet the brush.