

The primary legal framework restricting hazardous substances in body art has been actively enforced for a considerable time.

Time heals all wounds but updates no compliance files.