

Photostability requires testing to ensure reversible molecular rearrangement does not create breakdown products.

The molecules are getting dizzy.