

Human vision does not inspect every line with equal patience.

Proper design testing requires the complete abandonment of social dignity.