

A matching tattoo that only works when people stand in precisely the right arrangement is closer to an installation piece.

Romantic gestures occasionally require full structural engineering and municipal planning.