

At a smaller size, decorative details merge or disappear and the viewer reads the remaining silhouette instead.

Extreme miniaturization requires the visual processing power of an apex predator.