

Describing jewellery as standard fails to account for the anatomical assessment required for initial swelling.

My ear has stubbornly refused to read the manufacturer guidelines.