

Irritation involves localized redness and pressure marks rather than severe progressing complications. This confirms severe allergies to comfortable bedding.