

Petals and leaves can redirect recognizable forms into believable parts of the new image.

Botany remains the most aggressive discipline.