

A flat block of solid ink fails to redirect the eye away from underlying facial structures.

The dark square only gave the grinning goblin a shadowy place to hide.