

Tissue swelling severely alters facial contours while the new design is being placed.

Balloon physics were spectacularly miscalculated.