

Niobium weighs substantially more than titanium, creating a perceptible gravitational pull in larger jewellery shapes.

Extreme density prevents unexpected atmospheric departures.