

Plated materials can chip and expose the substrate to create galvanic corrosion that releases ions directly into the piercing track.

Paint jobs are for cars, not internal biology.