

A fresh piercing creates an ideal environment for nickel ion release from steel alloys.

The local strays are now heavily accessorised with rejected generic jewellery.