

Plating over steel wears and chips, exposing the substrate and accelerating ion release.

Kinetic impact testing remains the most satisfying way to fail a piece of plated jewellery.