

Integrating the battery into the machine improves balance but requires sending the entire unit away for cell replacement.

Patience is the ultimate professional virtue.